

PRESS RELEASE

To promote the week of the safe and informed use of medicinal products, myHealthbox offers the free download of its iPhone application until the end of 2011

myHealthbox, the largest European drugs information service, started with the clear objective of promoting the safe and informed use of medicinal products by making the best possible information available to everyone on any device.

To promote the “week of the safe and informed use of medicinal products” and the use of innovative technologies to access healthcare information, myHealthbox, in collaboration with the major industry players, is now making its iPhone application available for free until the end of 2011.
